Great Gathering of Members of the Young Family Association Takes Place on Next Tuesday Eve.

The great gathering of the members of the Young Family association will take place in Whitney hall next Tuesday night, Washington's birthday. For weeks past the various committees having the affair in charge have been diligently working, looking to everything that will insure an absolute and unqualified success. That it will be one of the big events of the season is now assured by the reports of those committees. Every arrangement has been made for handling the large crowd that is expected. While invitations have been issued, yet it has been found impossible to reach every member of the family. Hence public announcement is made that every descendant of the five brothers Young is invited to attend, whether receiving an invitation or not, and is urged to be present. There will be a large orchestra which will furnish music for the little ones, "A Dress Rehearsal" to be given by descendants of the family, and for the dancing. During the evening delightful refreshments will be served. Every attention has been given to details looking toward handling the large crowd that is expected to attend. That it will be the greatest social event in the history of the family, also the greatest gathering, is now assured.

Deceptive Appearances.
"Who is that dignified, pretentious looking individual?"
"Oh, he's a waiter."
"Compare him with the courteous waiter, all smiles and bows and so accommodating."
"He's not a waiter; he's only the proprietor."

Going Some.
The narrator was in the midst of his story: "Our hero decided to leave Ireland, and one day he picks up and comes to America."
"Would you mind waiting a second?"

interrupted one of the party. "How did 'e manage 't make the trip in wan day?"

The Danger Line.
"If I had one wife," remarked the teacher, "I'd be a monogamist, two wives, a bigamist. Now, if I had more than two wives, what would I be?"
"Crazy," and Willie remained after school.

He Had Been to Rice.
"What side dishes have you?" asked the newly married man.
"Well, sir," replied the waiter, "we have rice." "Will this persecution never cease?" and grasping his bride's arm he hurriedly left the cafe.

The Abode of Eternal Rest.
"What line do you carry?" asked his new landlady, having been informed that he was a traveling man.
"Sleeping devices," he replied.
"I'm in need of something in that line. Perhaps we can come to terms."
"Perhaps, I don't wish to bring, but I can safely say that once you sleep in one you'll never sleep in any other."
"What firm do you represent?"
"Undersoll & Co., manufacturers of coffins, caskets, etc."

Withered in the Bud.
Spinster (to tramp who asked for food): "Poor man! This cruel to have one's main aspirations blighted in the bloom!"
Tramp—Ah, "tis true! But did yours ever bloom, Miss?"

Working Out a System.
The lunatic, having completed tracing the scroll work in the carpet design with his finger, arose from his knees with a sigh.
"What's the matter?" asked a fellow inmate.
"Ah," said the lunatic, "my labors are in vain. Three have I traced that scroll work around the room only to find in the end that I was no nearer liberty than when I began."

Spring Buds.
Just a little pimple.
On a dainty chin;
Just a little sassafraz
And she's herself again.

The Ladies' Department

Where Quality and Low Prices Meet Face to Face.

The feature of the store will be the Ladies' Department. The fixtures and all appointments in this section will be elegant and convenient.

We have provided a separate entrance for ladies and by dividing the store as we have, we will have a ladies' department entirely away from the men's department. The ladies' entrance will be No. 20 East First South.

The new styles already in make us impatient to show them. By the time the opening arrives, we will have a display of ladies' ready-to-wear goods that will please the most fastidious.

The Men's Department

IN POLICE COURT

George Clark, Lee Burton and A. Watterfall were before Judge Bowman's court Saturday morning, charged with using obscene language. The case was set for hearing on Monday afternoon, and the three men required to put up $100 bail each or remain the guests of the city until Monday. All three stoutly proclaimed their innocence and said they did not know why they had been arrested by Patrolman McMartin. One told the court that he thought he had been brought into court as a witness; another said he did not know anything about the case, and the third told the court that he was asleep in bed when he was arrested by the patrolman. T. Rogers pleaded guilty to the charge
